Hiring Team — Senior DevOps Engineer
CampMinder

Dear CampMinder Hiring Team,

I'm a Lead SRE with 12+ years in cloud-native infrastructure, Kubernetes, and CI/CD automation. The Senior DevOps Engineer role aligns directly with work I've been doing at scale and looking to continue doing, but somewhere with a direct impact.

At Trimble/Viewpoint, I owned the DevOps platform top-to-bottom: AKS environments at 10M+ requests/day, full CI/CD pipelines in GitHub Actions and Azure DevOps, and Terraform managing 500+ cloud resources. I also built the observability stack (New Relic, distributed tracing) that cut MTTR by 50% and drove the custom tooling that eliminated 80+ hours/month of manual toil for a 50-person engineering org.

On your specific asks:

- Monolith modernization — I started as a .NET/C# developer and led a legacy-to-greenfield migration that improved response times by 40%. I know the inside of a monolith.
- AI tooling integration — I'm currently a Lead MLOps Engineer at Reason Benefit AI, designing Kubernetes infrastructure for ML training and inference pipelines. I've also successfully completed the Coursera course "Production Machine Learning Systems" where I have been exposed to multiple techniques for enabling visibility into AI systems.
- CI/CD end-to-end — I've built pipelines from scratch across monolithic and microservice architectures, with automated testing, rollback, and progressive delivery.
- Developer experience & mentorship — I built Go CLI tooling to streamline workflows for engineers and drove DevOps education across teams as a core part of the role, not an afterthought.

Eight years on Outside Magazine's Best Places to Work list tells me CampMinder backs up its culture commitments. That matters to me.
